

UniCredit Environmental Policy

The cornerstone of our corporate mission is to generate value for UniCredit's customers and shareholders, and contribute to the development of the communities in which we live and work.

UniCredit is aware that, over the long run, economic development requires proper protection of nature and the ecosystems that are essential to human survival.

When we adopted the Global Compact Principles, we made a commitment to the environmental goals it sets forth: to support a precautionary approach to environmental challenges; to undertake initiatives that promote greater environmental responsibility; and to encourage the development and diffusion of environmentally friendly technologies.

Today, it is a central challenge for businesses to address climate change, conserve biodiversity, efficiently use natural resources and assure ample water supply. As a commercial bank, we acknowledge we can play key role addressing these issues, and will continue to work to facilitate sustainable development, encourage job creation and foster social inclusion.

Our Environmental Management System is the framework through which we define and take action on our environmental commitment. As a financial institution, in addition to assuring our compliance with environmental regulations and our ongoing reduction of environmental impacts related to business operations, we are committed to transitioning to a more sustainable economic model through our lending and procurement practices.

In line with our corporate mission, we work to be fully engaged and transparent with institutions, associations and customers regarding our approach to economic development and the use of of sustainable practices. The involvement of all our people through dedicated initiatives that raise awareness and promote individual responsibility is a key aspect of our commitment to the environment.
